

I just wanted to mention that your rules for what can be said or shown of TV/Radio are a little outdated and are really meant too not offend the elderly and conservatives. God for bid someone sees a breast on TV or heres four letter words that are common language for the majority of Americans. Its Ok though to see war clips on the evening news. What a double standard. People have the right to here or see what they want or do not want. People who are offended easily can turn the channel or change the station. Please give America a break.

Thanks,
Al
